Dear Sii Recruitment Team,

While many developers focus solely on the "how," my experience as a Requirements Manager has taught me to always start with the "why" ensuring that every feature and automation serves a strategic purpose.

I am writing to apply for a to combine my high-level architectural perspective with hands-on technical execution. My work as a Requirements Manager was crucial in understanding the full lifecycle of complex IT systems.

In parallel with my professional duties, I have dedicated myself to mastering the cloud ecosystem, specifically focusing on AWS and automated deployment pipelines. I also builded personal projects involving Kubernetes and Docker, which allowed me to apply my knowladge into action.

I am eager to bring this dual perspective to Sii and I am convinced that my journey from creating automative tools to building cloud solutions demonstrates a high level of adaptability. Thank you for considering my application, and I look forward to the possibility of discussing how my unconventional background can become a significant asset during an interview.

Sincerely

Wiktor Zmiendak
